

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A glass block window system is provided with at least one substantially transparent glass block and at least one substantially transparent hopper vent bonded together using a substantially transparent adhesive. The hopper vent may include a window sash and a detachable screen. The window system is preferably prefabricated into a single unit for installation.